Dear Chairman Hundt:

Refer to: CC Docket No. 96-45

I would like to formally present my support for a fair universal service transition plan for rural telephone companies and consumers. I believe it is vital to the future rural economic development of Missouri.

I am against the adoption of a policy that could increase rates, reverse economic development and stall telecommunications progress for all of rural Missouri; especially for Bernie, Parma, Steele, Cooter and Holland, Missouri, or any rural areas of this nation.

I would like to see the FCC modify the Joint Board's recommendation on universal service for rural telephone companies, especially those located in Missouri.

Very truly yours,

Re: Education Rates for Advanced Telecommunications
Docket No. 96-45

Dear Mr. Hunt:

I write in support of meaningful discounts on telecommunications services for schools and libraries. Every school child and life-long learner must have access to the world of information technology. The Telecommunications Act, through its Universal Service Fund provisions, mandates the development of special discount rates for all schools and libraries so that they can secure services at affordable prices.

Advanced telecommunications services are important to improving learning, sparking the imagination and leveling the playing field for all of our nation's people. Affordable access to technology in all classrooms and libraries will assure that our children and life-long learners can connect with the technology they would need to compete in today's and tomorrow's work force. Such services in the classroom will also create informed and skilled consumers of new technology well into the 21st century.

Last November, the Federal-State Joint Board on Universal Service sent the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) a set of recommendations for implementing the Universal Service Fund provisions related to schools and libraries. These recommendations would give our learning institutions significant discounts on all services that are commercially available, with deeper discounts for those schools and libraries least able to pay and more expensive to service. All schools would get discounts on connections to classrooms and Internet connectivity. These are essential in order to provide the most advanced learning opportunities to the greatest number of students.

Reed Hunt, Chair FCC
Education Rates for Advanced Telecommunications

I urge your support for the Joint Board's recommendations. Taken as a whole, they will provide affordable discounts for a full range of services, and give schools and libraries flexibility in choosing the services needed to meet each community's diverse needs. Most importantly, these provisions, if adopted by the FCC, will make advanced technology for learning available to all Americans.

Sincerely,

Dear Chairman Hundt:

I am writing to you in regards to the federal "E-Rate" Telecommunications Discount Program. I am a locally elected school board member from Sylvan Union School District, Modesto, California, and I would like to express my strong support for this program and the proposed regulations governing its implementation.

The Telecommunications Act of 1996 and the Federal-State Joint Board discount plan will guarantee that even the poorest schools will have access to the Internet and the ability to provide distance-learning opportunities. The $2.25 billion a year will address the needs of schools across the country, and more importantly, the plan will bring telecommunications services directly to the classrooms, where they can have the greatest impact on students. It is important to remember that each element of this plan is vital to the overall success of the discount program. Therefore, the inclusion of discounts for internal classroom connections should not be eliminated, nor should the size of the Universal Service Fund be reduced. As I am sure you are aware, this program is essential for preparing our students to enter the workforce of tomorrow.

The E-Rate Telecommunications Discount Program is desperately overdue and our students need these discounts for telecommunications services this year. I urge you and the other FCC commissioners to fully support the recommendations of the Joint Board and approve the proposed final regulations regarding the discount plan for universal service for schools and libraries.

Thank you for your consideration of this matter.

Sincerely,

Margery Neder, President

Dear Commissioners/Chairman:

As superintendent of schools for a small urban district of 3,200 students, I want to express my appreciation for your hard work in recognizing that school districts must have affordable access to the InterNet. In my district it has become an expensive but necessary teaching tool.

The Telecommunications Act and the Federal-State Joint Board decision is a good one because it provides reasonable opportunity for all school districts to have affordable InterNet connection and distance-learning. The $ 2.25 billion per year should adequately address the needs of schools and just as importantly will bring services directly to the classroom where learning takes place. Inclusion of the internal classroom connections, at a discounted rate, is imperative.

I urge the FCC to fully support the Joint-Board's discount plan for universal service for schools.

RE: CC Docket No. 96-45

Dear Chairman Hundt:

We are the faculty and staff from White Marsh Elementary School in St. Mary's County, Maryland. We are writing in support of the Universal Service discounts for schools and libraries that have been recommended by the Joint Board.

The Telecommunications Act and the Joint Board discount plan will guarantee that all schools will have the opportunity to connect to the Internet. This plan will bring services directly to our classrooms where students learn. Your inclusion of internal classroom connections for discounts is vital.

With these discounts, we could provide our students with distance learning opportunities. The students would be able to study and research using the technology found in the workplace. As a rural school, the E-rate discounts would enable students to realize growth currently unavailable due to monetary constraints.

Our students need deep discounts for telecommunication services this year. We urge the FCC to fully support the Joint Board's discount plan giving universal service for schools and libraries.

Thank you.

Dear Chairman Hundt:

I understand that the FCC is considering a proposal to increase the business line Subscriber Line Charge and to impose a new charge, reportedly called a FERRO, of at least $4.50 per line per month to support extending new telecommunications capabilities to schools, libraries and rural health care facilities. At the same time that it is considering imposing these new cost on American businesses, we are told that the Commission will not take the long overdue step of bringing rates closer to the true economic cost of local access services.

I urge you not to adopt the foregoing proposals which would, in effect, impose a new tax on American business, regardless of whether it is characterized as a "rate rebalancing" or "modification of rate structure". With all due respect, we believe that the imposition of such taxes is the business of the people's representatives, not appointed officials. Moreover, nationwide educational and health care initiatives should be considered on a comprehensive basis by all interested authorities, not just as a telecommunications matter by the FCC.

The time has come for the Commission to reform its rules governing access charges, which are more than 3 billion a year higher than they should be. All consumers, businesses as well as residential, deserve protection from excessive monopoly prices. The Administration's social policy agenda should be addressed in other ways and not get in the way of these reforms.

Dear Mr. Hundt:

I am writing as a Member of PUSD's Board of Education. The program the FCC is considering which would start an "E-Rate" Telecommunications Discount Program would go a long way to help PUSD bring much needed skills to its students in this urban setting. It has become clear to me that in order to be sure our students are competitive as adults they must be comfortable with and knowledgeable about the Internet and E mail. It is up to the schools since most of our families do not own computers.

Please support the program with no reduction in size and the proposed regulations. Specifically, we need the inclusion and discounts of internal classroom connections as our budget is inadequate to the task.

Thank you for your consideration.

Dear Commissioner Hundt:

As Director of Instruction for Elko County School District, I am writing to urge your support for the "E-rate" discount. As a geographically large rural school district located in Northeastern Nevada it has been difficult to bring technology to our schools located in isolated parts of the county. We have several communities that have high levels of minorities and poverty with little in the way of the infrastructure to access technology and I see potential in this proposal to significantly impact our ability to provide connectivity.

In particular the communities in Owyhee, Nevada (Native American Reservation) and Jackpot, Nevada (High Hispanic Population) would be a high priority for Elko County School District to seek out and provide telecommunication infrastructure discounts for Internet and distance learning opportunities under this act.

Your efforts in support of this act can help our most rural and under-served populations gain affordable access to the information superhighway.

CC: Docket No. 96-45

Dear Chairman Hundt:

I write in strong support of affordable and meaningful discounts for all schools and libraries so that every school child and life-long learner can have access to the world of information technology. The passage of the Telecommunications Act last year mandates the development of a rate for education or an "e-rate" to secure affordable rates reflecting the financial capability of this community.

Integrating technology into the curriculum requires advanced telecommunications services and access for all classrooms - not just those classrooms in the public sector. National education surveys indicate that Catholic school classroom access to computers and connectivity is at least 50% behind that of its public school counterparts. I know for a fact that this percent is high when compared to many of our local urban Catholic schools.

In addition to the technology plan for my school being in place, the majority of Catholic schools in the greater Toledo area also have their technology plan ready to go, while the remainder of schools are currently finalizing their plan. We are however significantly disadvantaged and hindered in trying to implement our plans, because Catholic schools are excluded from most local and state funded initiatives for purchase of technology hardware. This reality compounded with the simple fact that without discounts on internal wiring and Internet access, these services may not be affordable to many schools.

I ask you to ensure that telecommunications companies provide services to schools and libraries at significantly discounted rates. I also strongly urge you to act upon this historic opportunity to bring the world of information to every school child and life long learner in America.

Sincerely,

Maureen Staines
